Abstract. Presenting our life to the public is a common practice today through a social media. It is just so easy and very practical and it can be done anytime. A similar ease is also on the public side to follow through and react to that presentation. This paper is to reveal the judgement of the public to a video presenting a young and talented Indonesian celebrity, Maudy Ayunda, in her academic journey abroad. This applied a qualitative study on text, making use of CDA framework to portray the public opinion on the video presentation. The data are the public comments following the video, broadcasted in the actress’ official Youtube channel. Based on the analysis, Indonesian publics have been proved to have a positive impression on Maudy’s education live in Stanford University. This is evidence from their affect, showing their positive emotion in the verbs like, love, adore, and adjectives proud and happy. They also have a positive assessment on her with positive values like smart, perfect, wonderful, humble, or in a metaphor a definition of beauty, brain and behavior. Thus, it can be concluded that Maudy has been represented a female idol for Indonesian public.

INTRODUCTION

Nowadays, people communication is easy, even when they are in absentia. Cyberspace is an online media for direct and reciprocal communication. Among of them is social media like Instagram, WhatsApp, Facebook, Youtube, or websites. Here, a user can post anything, to which the public (followers, or friends) can see (or read).

In addition, social media also provides menu/tool by which the public can send message or put a comment on every post created by a user account. One of the accounts which are actively responded and commented are those belong to public figures.

The comments are not only in words, but also other signs like emoticon and stickers, showing their feelings or attitudes. They can say that they like a post, or otherwise. Thus, the comments represent public judgment on the user’s posts, which usually contain the story of their life. In other words, the posts are their life presentation, and the comments are the public views on it.

This study focuses on how Indonesian public views an academic life of a female Indonesia celebrity, Maudy Ayunda in her video shared in YouTube, as one of the most popular social media in the world.

Some studies on attitude have focused on different objects like song lyrics (Arif, 2017). It describes the composer’s attitudes, the social relation among the participants, the context of the situation, and the power relation in the discourse. Another object analyzed is news (Asad, et al: 2021). They reveal the attitudinal stances of two Pakistani Online newspapers. The newspaper’s inclination was identified through its language, applying Martin and White’s (2005) Appraisal framework. Another study (Putriyantina and Said: 2018) shows the realization of attitude analysis on male and female second-year student’s narrative text. All of these studies reveal the attitude in a mainstream text, which tend to be more structural and well-planned. This recent study is on public comments that are more spontaneous and authentic, which are led by an instant feeling based on their immediate perceptions on the video post.

For knowing the meaning of the text representation, this research used Critical Discourse Analysis towards Appraisal. According to Martin (2005) initiated appraisal theory as evaluative use of language by focusing one metafunction of language that is interpersonal meaning. Appraisal concerns with the interpersonal in the language, with subjective presence of writer and speakers in the texts as they adopt stances toward both the material they present and those with whom they communicate. In this case, appraisal is a part of interpersonal metafunction. The goal is to analyze the relationship between speakers and hearers as well as writers and readers.

According to Martin and White, appraisal theory is divided into three subsystems: attitude, engagement, and graduation. Attitude is divided into three aspects i.e. affect, judgment and appreciation. Affect is the emotional evaluation related to the things, person, state of affairs, etc. It is about whether people feel happy or sad, confident or anxious, interested or bored.

Judgment is evaluation of attitudes and the way behave or the characters. Judgment of social esteem deals with “normality” means how special someone is, “capacity” means how capable they are and “tenacity” means how resolute one is. Social sanction deals with “veracity” that means how truthful someone is and “propriety” means how ethical someone is.

Appreciation is the evaluation of things of natural and phenomenon implicit and explicitly. As Martin and White state, appreciation can be divided into reaction (do they catch our attention or not), composition (balance and complexity) and valuation (how innovative, authentic, timely).

METHOD

In this research, the writer chose the comment in one of videos from YouTube. The data are the comments to one of the videos in Maudy Ayunda’s official YouTube channel. She is one of the graduate students in Stanford University, entitled My Graduation- what I learned. This video was published on July 12th, 2021. There are about than 5,200 comments responding to this video. This study chose 20 comments in English. The comments are taken randomly by choosing the first twenty comments written in English. All of the comments taken were posted between January – March 2022. The data were analyzed on their attitude, using Martin and White ‘s appraisal framework (2006). It will seek the expressions of affect, judgment and appreciation evoked by the public through their comments.
